

ABSTRACT

[00142] A system and method of controlling a vehicle includes: sensing a current position of the trailer relative to the vehicle, determining a vehicle steering wheel angle, determining a predicted position of the trailer based upon the current position of the steering wheel angle, and displaying to the vehicle driver the current position and the predicted position of the trailer relative to the vehicle.